The stores will be just half as large as they are now, and, as the important has a very large stock on hand, they will not have half room enough for their goods and in order to prevent them from being damaged by dirt and dust, they have decided to sell all their Spring goods at less than cost, and others, such as curtains, table-cloths, etc., at exact cost. We advise all to call at the important and convince themselves of the great bargains. Such bargains they can never get again, and in order to prevent a great rush, we advise all to call early and take advantage of the building of the Lafayette Hotel. 116

The auction sales of the Santa Gertrudes lands fixed for the 19th, 20th and 21st of the month have been unavoidably postponed in consequence of the illness of the surveyor and the managing agent Mr. Edward McLain. The postponement contemplates the sale of the property on the 26th, 27th and 28th of May. *april7:td

If you want a good suit of clothes for a little money, go to the Bazaar, corner of Main and Requena streets, and get one of those $12 suits, worth $17. m1:1m

The principal organs of sense are concentrated in the face. It is therefore necessary to be very careful with the superior birds which can be had at Demon 18, Main Street. mard

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER.

SUNDAY, ..... MAY 9, 1875.

How curious politics do work. The banks of San Francisco, who subscribed so liberally toward the election expenses of a Democratic Assessor, are nearly all owned and controlled by Republicans.

CHANCELLOR HARTSON, of Napa, is named by one or two journals as a suitable candidate for Governor on the Independent ticket. CHANCELLOR is a slow, easy-going old coach. He can run slower, and talk a crowd to sleep with more ease and grace, than WILLIAM IRWIN or ex-Senator SHERMAN. He has gone over the Congressional course a time or two, and always saw the distance flag flying without looking back. In the Gubernatorial race he will be blinded by the dust kicked up by the slowest candidate of the other parties.

It seems unjust that ELIZABETH should not be permitted to tell her story. It is true she has told it so often and in so many different ways before, that as evidence in favor of BEECHER or against her husband it would not be entitled to no receive great consideration. Still we should like to hear the new version which she would now give of the old story. It is refreshing to read the dove's denunciation of her ne'er do well husband. Her assertion that the father of lies is an angel of light compared to TREPOUR has our endorsement, and it excites our sympathy to read the little woman's assertions that she is a long-suffering and much-abused wife. Judge NEILSON ought to admit her testimony. The majority of patients are suffering from consumption, paralysis and rheumatism. The number discharged last week, twelve; number under medical treatment, fifty; number of deaths, five. One of the latter died second day after being admitted, from fracture of the skull, inflicted by unknown persons, and the others were old hopeless cases. The physician in charge is Dr. Brooke, his appointment to the hospital being late. Patients place implicit confidence in him as he has been successful in his operations and has fathomed unknown cases. The hospital is under the direction of the Sisters of Charity, who have many difficulties to contend with. They are patient and attentive and spend all their time in trying to give comfort to their sick patients. The beds are kept neat and clean, bedding being regularly changed, victuals properly cooked and butter and meat of a good quality. Patients in general are satisfied with their condition, and the success of the Sisters compares favorably with other hospitals founded on the same principle. A number of the patients are in a condition to patrol under the shining sun, but time passes by quite slowly and each day is to the afflicted as if it was composed of thirty-five hours. Patients require books and periodicals to read to pass away their time and cease to forget their sufferings, past and present, and to increase their future hopes. We invite the citizens of Los Angeles to visit the hospital and inspect it for themselves. There are numerous attractions for visitors, and we hope to see many of them. Hoping some lady or gentleman will come forward and break the ice towards furnishing the invalids with reading matter and visiting occasionally, I remain

Death of S. F. Butterworth.

Samuel F. Butterworth, a prominent citizen of this city, died yesterday afternoon, after a long and painful illness. The deceased was born at Newburg, N. Y., in November, 1811, and therefore was over 63 years of age at the time of his death. He was educated at Union College in the same State, and after graduation in 1833, applied himself to the study of law with the late Edward Tompkins, in New York. He shortly after departed for Mississippi and engaged in the practice of his profession. Under Van Buren's administration he was appointed United States District Attorney for Mississippi. At the close of the term he was commissioned Justice of the Supreme Court of Mississippi, an honor which he declined. About this time he took a very active part in politics, being a pronounced Democrat. He was the organizer of the United States Assay Office in New York, and was its first Superintendent. The office was created in 1857. His arrival in this State was in 1868 in connection with the new Almaden Quicksilver mine suits, of which Company he was President. In 1869 he settled permanently here and became the manager as well as President of the New Almaden Company. In 1870 he retired from the Presidency. Up to his death he occupied the position of President of the North Bloomfield Gravel Mining Company. When the University of California was established by an act of the Legislature, Mr. Butterworth was appointed one of the Regents by Governor Haight, and he was chairman of the Executive Committee of the Regents of the University during its infancy. He was an active and judicious friend of the University and many of its fine features originated in his suggestions. He was the author of the resolution abolishing all fees and charges, and declaring the University absolutely free to all properly qualified applicants, as well as of other States and countries as of California. Another resolution offered by Mr. Butterworth opened the doors of the institution to young women and admitted them on terms of equality, in every respect, with young men. Mr. Butterworth was also prominent as a Commissioner of the Golden Gate Park, in which capacity his good taste was of great practical value.

For more than a year Mr. Butterworth suffered from chronic disease of the liver, and for a month preceding his death he continued to his bed and suffered very much. The pain led him toward the end, and at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon he passed quietly away. Mr. Butterworth leaves a wife and two daughters, Mrs. C. P. Pringle and Mrs. Louisa T. Haggins. The funeral will take place to-morrow, at 11 A. M., from Trinity (P. E.) Church, corner of Post and Powell streets.—S. F. Bulletin, 6th inst.

Fruit Culture.

The fruit culture in Southern California is now and must always continue to be a source of great profit to the people. The climate and the soil is all that could be desired to make the very best business that the people can engage in. Notwithstanding we have large orchards and vineyards now, we feel confident that this business is only in its infancy compared to what it will be in a few years. But if we expect to reap all the advantages and profits we are entitled to, our fruit raisers must respect the quality of fruit more than they have done. Hitherto they have had more regard to quantity than the quality. We are quite sure that we have not the best quality of any class of fruit. It is true we have been able to sell and use all that we have raised, but it is only because it has not come into competition with the best class of fruits. Our orchards are susceptible of great improvement. Our peaches and apples are not half as good as they can be made. It is by grafting and budding that the improvement in fruit is obtained, and now while young orchards are being planted, is the time to look after that. Not one-half the time and labor is required to do it now that it will require when the trees are several years old. Our vineyardists have taken considerable pains to improve the grape, and in a few years they will be amply rewarded for their trouble. As all manner of fruit can be raised on a large scale here, we desire to see not only the largest but the best fruit in the world.

Letter From a Patient in the County Hospital.

EDITOR HERALD.—Los Angeles County Hospital is situated in the city suburbs. The buildings are two in number, composed of frame structures of plain architecture and divided into four wards or separate apartments.

Two of the above wards being neatly finished with wainscoting plastering and flooring, and all necessities which afford proper ventilation. The occupants of the latter wards are invalids suffering from accidents and diseases that require more care and prompt attention. The majority of patients are suffering from consumption, paralysis and rheumatism. The number discharged last week, twelve; number under medical treatment, fifty; number of deaths, five.

One of the latter died second day after being admitted, from fracture of the skull, inflicted by unknown persons, and the others were old hopeless cases. Fisher & Thatcher have done it again. They have just received a large stock of watches made to their order, which, while they contain the best class of works, can yet be sold at prices so low that everybody can well afford to carry a first class time piece. This uniting firm is also manufacturing in their own shop jewelry of a quality superior to anything in the imported line. Their massive chains and elegant pins, are the admiration of all. Everybody buys them, and the children cry for them.

S. C. Foy lost a few thousand dollars worth of goods on the Ventura, but he didn't fail nor does he intend to give it up. He ordered duplicates of all the goods lost, and those duplicates have arrived, which enables him to do just what he intended to do before the compass of the Ventura went on a bearing space—sell harness, saddles and everything in his line of the very best quality and as cheap as the cheapest. If you don't believe this just step down to No. 17 Los Angeles street and you will see it is yourself.

SUNDAY READING.

Selected for Sunday's HERALD.

THE ELEVENTH HOUR.

BY MRS. M. P. VAN DYCK.

Trembling I stand without the gate. O! let me in: Say nothing God is too late: He cometh not to me, but I to him. The clock of four I know hath told The Eleventh Hour: The Sunne past me: I am old, But in Thee art—Power.

The lamp of life burned low in sin, W. I. soon expire: I have no right to know who I am, And blight my face, But in Thee pentance I bow, And Thee art—Grace.

I've worship'd idols, roaming gold, And spurned the Cross: I would not tell, till I was old. My gods were dross. Forgive, Great art, all my guilt, For Thee art—Kind.

Fall oft I heard but soon forgot Thy warning voice: The story of my life could not Make me rejoice: Thou know how to bear each scale From—of mine eyes: My case is hard, but not assai, For Thou art—Wise.

The fire last night.

About half past eleven last night a fire broke out in the barn on the premises of Mrs. R. M. Williams on San Pedro street, which was soon burned to the ground, burning a horse to death. The fire company soon reached the place, but could do no service on account of there being no water in the vicinity. It is evident that it was the work of an incendiary.

Wonderful Vegetation from Monte Vista.

Yesterday evening our office was invaded by Judge Lindley of Monte Vista, who piled into the sanctum about a hundred weight of vegetation, in the shape of corals, pumpkins, vines, potatoes, tomatoes, etc. These productions were grown without any irrigation, and we consider these specimens as the highest recommendation Monte Vista could have. The articles themselves are on exhibition at the door of the HERALD office, and the following letter tells all about them:

EDITOR HERALD: Herewith I forward you a package of several things numbered:

No. 1 is a fig—a fair specimen of the ripe blue fig—the first at Monte Vista.

No. 2 consists of potatoes, which have had a hard time—planted very deep when rain was not expected for days before the twelve-inch rain in January—long time coming—were sickly—took new root late near the surface—you can test the quality—quantity not large. All doubts are removed as to the production of Irish potatoes on this slope; try the little lot I send you.

No. 3 is a sample of sweet corn that was planted at the same time and depth as the potatoes; most of the lot rotted; some came sickly, but like the potatoes, took new root at the surface and you see the result.

The Southern slope of the Cahuenga range is a great growing region being absolutely frostless in the hardest Winter, and is capable of bringing string beans and roasting ears to maturity in the early part of April.

Beans and corn by the valley standard, would be "well advanced" if out of the ground four to twelve inches high at that date. You will excuse this connection or addition, as it is not for Monte Vista alone, but for a beautiful section of the country which has been neglected, or rather not understood and appreciated.

No. 4 is a hill of corn planted on driest land about the 7th of March, when the ground appeared so dry that I had but little hope of its sprouting.

No. 5 is a hill of corn planted same with No. 3, and 4 feet high.

No. 6 is a musk melon vine in blossom. Four water melons also.

No. 9 is a cucumber vine in blossom.

No. 10 is a beet, sown broadcast with the barley in November, as was the case taken to you by Mr. Potts. By the way, that corn grew without cultivation, and although imperfect in ear and of a small kind, it demonstrated absolute frost (which it was intended for) and also what can be done by good cultivation.

This is on an apparently dry mountain side. How do these samples of corn compare with Mr. Longstreet's?

He caused me to send these samples, as the Los Angeles says that he has the best corn in the country, so I thought to send you the second best.

No. 11 is a tomato vine in blossom, planted in January. These things may be of some public service in directing attention to this Southern slope of the Cahuenga range.

SUNDAY, MAY 9, 1875.

On Thursday at Pleyto, as Jose Manuel Romero and Jose Maria, two young sheep herders in the employ of Mr.
Saenger, were performing their normal ablutions previous to breakfast, they espied a pistol lying on the window sill above them. Being curious to examine it, Romero reached out and took it. He had no sooner done so than Maria seized it by the barrel and playfully attempted to pull it away from him. In doing so it fired, the ball penetrating his chest and killing him instantly.

Sweeney, the engineer of the working train that was ditched at Clipper Gap on Thursday, died Saturday night from the effect of injuries which he received on that occasion. This makes the third victim of the Clipper Gap disaster.

A young man named Edward Roe was drowned in Boyce Brothers' reservoir, at Scales Diggings, Sierra county, one day last week. He went into the water to bathe and was taken with cramps.
